Bid ‘n’ Bump Instructions

Hold onto your paddles, folks—let’s get a refresher on how this works.

Every year, there’s a fierce scramble to win seats at the annual blow-outs hosted by our rockinest party animals and at the exquisite meals crafted by our resident gourmets. We’re upping the competition by including a selection of these multiple-winner events on the Bid ‘n’ Bump Board.

Here’s how it works:

When the evening begins at 6pm, the Bid ‘n’ Bump Board, located on the southern wall of the Parish Room (to the left of the entrance) will have a line for every event, with the appropriate number of winnable spaces marked out. Say, for instance, that the Auction Team was holding a build-your-own cheesesteak party for eight people—it’d look like this:

B1. Cheesesteak Madness
--------------------------------	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--

You, being a champion of cheesesteaks, would naturally want to bid on a ticket to this event, and you’d want to bring your best friend. Simply get a double-wide Post-It note from the lovely Bid ‘n’ Bump Board assistant and mark your paddle number and your starting bid on it, then place the Post-It note over two open squares for the event. This is still a bid for two seats (meaning $400 total), but the double-wide allows you and your best friend to attend as a unit.

Meanwhile someone else bid on just one spot. The Board would then look like this:

B1. Cheesesteak Madness	14 $200	52 $200
--------------------------------	-------------	-------------	--	--	--	--	--

Don’t get too complacent, though: if the rest of the event fills up and someone new wants to bid, he could bump you by placing his own Post-It note—marked with his own paddle number and his own higher bid—right over yours.

However, they need to use another double-wide post-it to bump you. If they are a singleton, they must bump another single Post-It.

How can you avoid getting bumped by higher bids? Just stalk the Board like an eagle-eyed maniac, that’s how—we encourage multiple bumps and repeat bids!

The Bid ‘n’ Bump Board will be open until 8 pm —bid early, and bump often!

L2. Philly Scooter Tour with Dan Widyono Quantity: 2

Dan Widyono will take you as a passenger on an afternoon ride on his new motorcycle (Kymco X-town 300i) on a scooter-eye-level tour in the Philadelphia area (described below) (no highways). You will take in select sights and stops, per request, as time allows. Up to 3-hour ride including stops. Passenger must be 18 years or older, sign a liability release, wear a helmet (medium size open faced helmet available for borrowing), and be able to hold on unassisted. Weight limit of 175lbs or less for safety reasons.

West Philadelphia: Begins at the First Unitarian Church, stopping at Bartram's Garden to explore the Bartram's Mile waterfront trail, and returning to church (or dropping you off at home if you live in West Philadelphia).

Schuylkill River: Begins at the First Unitarian Church, stopping in Manayunk, and returning to church (or dropping you off at home if you live in Center City or close to the Art Museum). If time permits, the route may extend into the Wissahickon Valley Park for a brief hike on the trail (or that could be the primary destination if you so choose).

Main Line: Begins at the First Unitarian Church, out to the Main Line, stopping at Main Line Unitarian Church, and returning to church (or dropping you off at home if you live between MLUC and First Unitarian Church). Cow sightings not guaranteed, but there are many opportunities to learn about new places to shop, eat, visit, and explore.

L9. The Empire of IPAs: 2019 Beer Dinner Quantity: 11

Beeere they go again! After 14 years now, homebrewer Rick Womer and former beer judge Dane Wells are still trying to convince the world (or at least our congregation) that it needs better beer. Again, they will entertain you with an educational tutored tasting, accompanied by a themed repast by Joan Wells, whose Rabbit Stew from the Abbey Ales dinner a couple of years ago is still enjoying rave reviews. In the past, we've discussed Italian beers, Lancaster beers, English beers, local growlers, Belgian beers and beers of New England, to mention a few. This year, Dane and Rick will be showcasing America's top micro-style beer, the IPA, or India Pale Ale. Today's IPA is nothing like the IPA of your grandfather's day; it is now made up of about 9 different sub-styles. Join us as we show you how this one style, with a rich history, has blossomed into one of America's favorite drinks.

September 28, 2019, 6pm; at the Wells residence at The Drake, 1512 Spruce St. Apt 2402, Philadelphia

Quantity: 2

If you win this, you will send photo(s) of our favorite child or pet (no judgements) to the artist. The better the resolution, the better the results. The portrait will be digitally rendered in a style best suited for the subject (watercolor, oil, mixed media). You will receive a jpg of the image to approve. It will be printed then on 8X10 in or 8X8 in fine art paper. You will have the choice of having it matted and ready to frame or mounted on a cradled wood panel. You will also receive the final digital image for you to print as you wish, share or use as a screen saver. (I will also be bringing samples of final product to display). Two of these will be available.
